I began the assignment by choosing my color scheme, I chose my favorite one and made the CSS rules for it. Then I started making a template for all the other pages and copying all the HTML Elements over to it. I then made hyperlinks to the other pages, those hyperlinks I made into buttons with CSS classes, all the buttons had to be the HTML  tag so I had to find the pixel Values for all the button separation, that was the most annoying part. I then began writing the homepage paragraph about the band and what they do, after that I added the band members to the homepage. Next was the albums website, the easiest part, I began with finding the songs for each album and writing them in. The second to last stop was the "Music Videos" web page, so I found the video on youtube and embedded it into my website using <iframe>. Then Finishing up with the Links page I made  tags and gave them the HTML Attribute of href so that you can click it to go there, then gave it the properties and finished up with giving the links text to indicate where they go.
